MASSACHUSETTS FOR REVISION.

The attention of the large section of the Republican party that believes the tariff should be let alone is respectfully called to the recent declaration made by a committee of 100 of the first citizens of Massachusetts, most of them being Republicans. There is no mistaking the attitude of these gentlemen. They are for tariff reform and they say so without evasion or equivocation. We quote a paragraph from an utterance they are sending throughout their state as follows:

"We demand that hides, coal, iron ore, lumber and wood pulp be placed by congress on the free list and that duties upon manufactured and other articles be reduced, wherever existing duties are higher than are needed for any just purpose of protection."

That is what is known as "the word with the bark on it." The declaration is of much more than ordinary importance because of the state from which it comes. Massachusetts is a manufacturing center. Its people have lived by the manufacturing industry for years without number. They have enjoyed the fruits of protection, and now they feel that they need protection no longer.

They believe that free hides will make it possible for people to buy shoes more cheaply, and that consequently they will be able to buy more shoes, that free coal will make the fires in the cottages burn more brightly, and free iron ore will result in cheapening of structural steel and steel rails, that free lumber will make building cheaper and free wood pulp cheaper paper.

Governor Douglas, Democrat, was elected last year on a tariff revision plank and campaign in spite of the fact that President Roosevelt carried the states by many thousands. If the Republicans who are in control of the state machine this year insist upon their present programme of standing pat on or straddling the tariff issue, they will almost surely lose the state again.

The Japs do not like the treaty. Over forty petitions of individuals and associations, objecting to the conditions of the peace treaty and asking that its ratification be refused, have been sent to the throne. One of them is signed by six professors of the Imperial University, one of whom was placed on the retired list owing to a strongly worded anti-peace thesis of which he was the author.

By a vote representing 1,253,000 members against 26,000 the laboring men of England have disapproved Chamberlain's protective tariff program. They say that a tariff would be detrimental to the interests of the working classes, upon whom the burden of protection would press most heavily. The English workmen show the yhave studied the tariff question to an advantage.—Commoner.
